Summary: Jason Leverick has been ordered to create a plasma bomb for the United States Military. However something goes wrong and Giant canisters start appearing.

Darker Than The Night

Jason Leverick woke up from his hangover and glanced at the clock. He couldn't believe what the time was and what day it was until his assistant, Lachlan Smith came bursting into the room. "Come on! Get Up!" Yelled Lachlan. "Alright, alright I'm up! Jeez..." Jason Muttered under his breath. Eventually he got up and slipped on his white lab coat as Lachlan started to pack up all of the paperwork for the major project. Apparently, the United States Military had ordered the creation for a plasma bomb, which will be used to make all other countries surrender to their power. As soon as Jason had put his lab coat on, he came out of his room and opened the fridge and got out a tub of yoghurt and a spoon. He started eating the yoghurt, when his cat Tibbias jumped into the tub of yoghurt and made a mess of it on the floor. "Tibbias!" Shouted Jason as Tibbias ran straight for the open door. Jason stood up and ran for the paper towel as the yoghurt started making it's way towards the power point at the corner of the room.

Auther's Notes: Thanks to Jordz0005 For The Idea Of The Main Plot And A Main Character Name.

PS: Each Chapter May Not Me Long However There Will Be Twice As Much Of Chapters.
